

Pure Web Development invites new clients to play in their Sandbox!

The new Sandbox service will allow clients to create and maintain a professional business website for one low monthly price.

Atlanta, Georgia June 21, 2011 – Pure Web Development is pleased to announce the launch of their new Sandbox service. Sandbox is an enterprise level content management system that will let users build and maintain a website using custom designed templates. Through the use of a control panel a person can add, delete and edit content without any specialized computer training. This service was specifically designed for business owners that need an internet presence but do not have the budget to outsource the job.

“We know that times are rough and many smaller companies can not afford to purchase a custom designed website along with its hosting. We wanted people to know that they had choices when it came to their web presence and that they could keep costs down by maintaining the website themselves instead of signing a contract with a high priced website design firm.” said Stephen Fortmann, President of Pure Web Development Inc.

The Sandbox service will be offered in a basic, professional and ultimate package without a contract. Each package will offer the following features in varying amounts:

- Site hosting
- Multiple email accounts
- Multiple professionally designed templates to change the look of the site
- A minimum of 500MB of storage space
- A minimum of 500MB of bandwidth per month

A free demo of the Sandbox service is currently being offered at xxxxxxxx. Users can start a free account that will allow them to see how easy it is to change the template and edit the page content.

About Pure Web Development:

Pure Web Development is based in Atlanta, Georgia and for years they have been steadily building a reputation for high quality web design. Their designers have experience working with a full range of clients from small local nonprofits to large corporations. They pride themselves on giving their clients exactly what they need, whether that is a turnkey solution or a massive e-commerce website. The mission of Pure Web Development is to have a positive impact on their client's lives and to give them an online presence that they can be proud of. Further details about Pure Web Development and their services can be found at the website www.purewebdevelopment.com.